BOOK REVIEWS – GUIDELINES

Book Authors are welcome to forward their publications to the Book Review Editor for consideration in the Book Review Section of the Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis. The book content should meet the interests of the JCPA readership in line with its Aims and Scope and interdisciplinary orientation.

Book Reviewers play a major role in the publication process of the Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis and are typically invited by the Book Review Editor. The JCPA is honored to have their assessment and insights.

The Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis is committed to publishing and reporting on outstanding scholarship in all areas of Public Policy. It is also the primary publishing outlet for innovative research on all facets of comparative policy analysis. In your assessment we will appreciate your evaluation of the book's contribution to the topical, scholarly and comparative public policy domains, bearing in mind the JCPA Comparative Aims and Scope (see www.jcpa.ca).

In completing your review, please summarize the argument of the book, while placing it within the context of the broader literature on this subject.

1. Does the author make a novel argument?
2. Are the methods appropriate for answering the questions at hand?
3. Does it advance the domain of comparative policy studies? How?
4. Does the book, or aspects of the book, contribute to the development and testing of comparative methodology, theory, or their practice implications?
5. What does the author provide scholars and students of comparative public policy or policy analysis?
6. What is the appropriate audience for this book (e.g., specialists in the field, graduate or undergraduate classes on the topic, any student of comparative policy analysis, or even the broader public)?
7. What are your thoughts regarding the book's relevance to scholars in this area?
8. Finally, the most helpful reviews are those that present the strengths and weaknesses of a book within the context of providing an overall assessment of the book's contribution.

Please end the review with your name, institutional affiliation, and email address, as you wish them to appear.

The review should be about 800-1,000 words and should be sent directly to John A. Hird, Book Review Editor at jhird@umass.edu, preferably as an attached Word file.
