COMPARATIVE STATISTICS AND ANALYTICS – GUIDELINES

The Journal of Comparative Policy Analysis is committed to publishing outstanding scholarly manuscripts in all areas of Public Policy and being an outlet for innovative research on all facets of comparative policy analysis. The papers submitted should be of the highest scholarly standard and adhere to the JCPA readership's expectations as outlined in the JCPA's Comparative Aims and Scope (see www.jcpa.ca).

The JCPA regularly features a section entitled Comparative Policy Statistics and Data Analytics. We invite submissions and proposals focusing on all aspects of policy measurement and data analysis with a comparative twist. We publish articles on measurement and comparative indicators of economic and social well-being, governance, public performance, policy coordination, and the interaction between state actors, institutions and markets.

We are especially interested in new indices, data sources and analytical tools, practices in measurement and data analytics, and reflections on comparative statistics and research methods used in policy analysis. For example, we invite papers that debunk statistics widely used in the formulation of public policies or that explain their divergence. If you have an idea for a paper, contact the section editors, Fred Thompson, Atkinson Graduate School of Management, Willamette University ftompson@willamette.edu and Frank Heiland, School of Public Affairs, Baruch College of the City University of New York frank.heiland@baruch.cuny.edu. Submissions should run 4,000-6,000 words and should be amply supported with tables, charts, and figures.

The JCPA publishes only high quality scholarly papers. Each paper is double-blind reviewed by three reviewers. JCPA's acceptance rate is 21%. Acceptance, revision, or rejection decisions will be conveyed to the author by the editor-in-charge of your article. Acceptance or rejection decisions are reached in consultation with the Editor-in-chief who has final authority.

The JCPA commits to a particularly fast response track. Articles submitted receive a first response within 10-12 days, within which time, if found suitable, it is assigned three reviewers. Reviewers are requested to submit their reviews within 45 days. Nevertheless, the topic, the quality and contents of the articles, as well as timely adequate submissions and resubmissions are the responsibility of the author under whose name the article appears.

For any further questions do not hesitate to contact Ms. Diana Walker, Editorial Manager at jcpa@sfu.ca
